A photograph showing a group of people and two police officers at a clam bar. A white sign with the words "CLAM BAR" in bold black letters is held up in the center. The police officers are wearing blue uniforms with dark caps and have yellow stripes on their dark trousers. One officer is in the foreground, facing right, while another is further back, also facing right. Several people are standing around, some looking towards the camera. The background shows a wooden structure and trees. A yellow bollard is visible in the lower right foreground.
