

JOSEPH M. GETSINGER - Artist

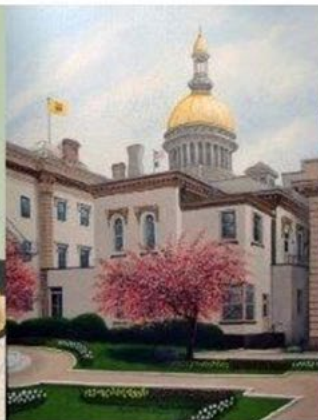

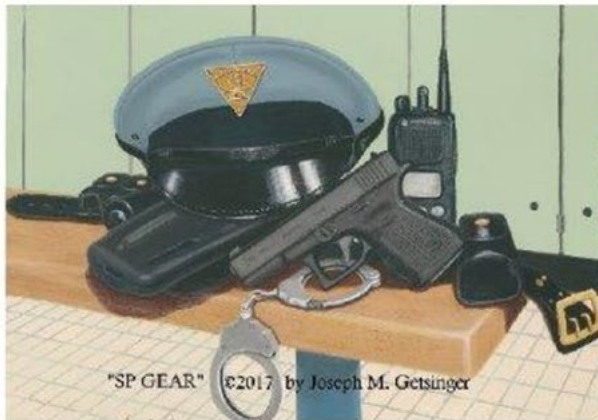

Born in Camden, New Jersey in 1948 this artist realized his art talent as early as the fourth grade when he won his first art contest. He was supported by his parents Anna and Vincent through his early years and into Woodrow Wilson High School. Joe decided to serve his country during the Vietnam war instead of attending art college and joined the United States Navy. After his tour of duty, he joined the New Jersey State Police as a Trooper in 1971. During the early years in the State Police he studied under Audubon, New Jersey artist George C. Vail where he honed his talents with oil, water color and acrylic paintings. In 1974 he was published through Evergreen Publishing of Trenton, New Jersey by CFO and art promoter Charles Lombardo. Joe is known throughout the country for his fire and police art. He was inspired during the time he was a fire and Arson Investigator for the State Police. In 1980 he created the first fundraiser image for the Burn Foundation titled, "Night Call," and has continued supporting them for the last 38 years raising funds for burn victims/survivors. This artist has created over 250 separate limited edition prints and continues painting in his studio in Woodbury Heights, New Jersey. His paintings have found their way to many a collector across the country. His unique design of his prints has allowed personalizations on them as in his firefighter and police art. His art can be found on his website: www.jgetsingerarts.com and EBAY or directly through his studio. His faith in God has guided him through many of his projects and is constantly inspired by his wife Ginny and their four children.

The Association of Former New Jersey State Troopers (FTA) is proud to acknowledge the artistic talents of DSFC Joseph M. Getsinger, #2697 (Ret). A longtime member of the FTA, Joe's artwork has been proudly displayed and offered for sale in our True Blue and Gold Gift Shop. Now, in coordination with Joe's personalization of his prints, he is offering you the opportunity to purchase his prints directly from the artist himself. To Order a Print visit: www.jgetsingerarts.com. Make sure to advise Joe that the FTA referred you. Joe will ship your print(s) directly to you right from his art studio. If you mention the FTA and/or send in your Badge # for personalization, Joe will include a collector's card with your print (sample below), and will donate a portion of the proceeds to the N.J. Former Trooper Heritage Foundation. It's that simple!

Special Case Records of the Famous New Jersey State Police.
File Classification Threats and attempted murder.

No.6 Trooper Taylor of the New Jersey State Police was called to a distant farm on which the owner had gone mad with blood-lust.

He covered the distance at high speed on his motorcycle and was admitted by the crazed man's father, who pointed toward a stairway leading to the second floor.

From above came the sound of a voice raised in maniacal rage. The trooper ran up the stairs to confront an elderly woman who was vainly struggling to wrest a murderous army automatic from the grip of her son.

At the sight of the officer the man hurled the woman to one side and opened pointblank fire. A heavy bullet screamed past the trooper's head, shattering the brickwork of a chimney just behind. A second followed, nicking the trooper's ear. A third shot roared from the high-powered weapon. But with it came the flash and report of a service Colt as Taylor's gun leaped from its holster and, blazing from his hip, sent its bullet through the madman's brain, killing him instantly.

A typical example of the cool-headed courage and skill that have placed state troopers among the foremost pistol shots of the world, whether on the range or in a gun-fight to the death.

The gun-play of desperate criminals cannot win against the deadly trigger fingers of Heroes of the Law!
